

I was born in 1977 and I am the third born in a family of nine. I did my primary education at Inwlasha primary school and I did my grade 8 and 9 at Chihola Secondary School. After my grade nine examinations, I was selected to go to David Kaunda Technical School where I completed my grade 12. After that I went to Zambia Institute of Management where I did my National Accounting Technician program. From 2006 to 2002 I worked for Barclays Bank as a Direct Sales Agent (D.S.A.). From 2010 to 2013 I worked for Mfandwa Investments as a cashier. From 2014 to 2016 I pursued my secondary teacher's diploma at Kitwe Institute of Teacher's Education. I was not smooth sailing though as I faced a lot of challenges mostly financial challenges as I was paying school fees for myself at college level.

What I enjoy most about being a teacher is seeing learners progress academically due to part of efforts. I have always wanted to contribute to society in so many ways so being a teacher had made it possible.

Learners face a lot of challenges ranging from lack of financial support from their parents, lack of study materials and many more. But as of late learners have been disturbed a lot due to premature closures of schools as a result of Covid-19. So as a way of helping my learners I make small pamphlets for different subjects which I give to them. During the closures I prepare work for the learners and they come to collect at school on Mondays and Fridays to facilitate continuation of learning.
