

My name is Loveness Mulemba. I was born in a family of six children and I am the last born. I did my primary education at Buseko Primary School and secondary education in Kitwe at Helen Kaunda Secondary School where I attained a grade 12 certificate.

All along my dream was to become a nurse but this could not work out. I tried here and there but nothing turned positive. Being a double orphan, life became hard for me. All my lifetime I passed through thick and thin in order to find what to do. Fortunately enough a certain man called me to help him teach the grade fives at Kashitu Middle basic as piece work. I agreed and just from there I developed a very strong interest to take up teaching as a career. By interacting with learners in a rural set up I became motivated and thought of becoming a teacher throughout my lifetime.

However to achieve this dream come true things became so difficult for me. I faced a lot of challenges where financial support was concerned. Since I had no one to pay for my tuition fees at college level to pursue my teaching career I decided to volunteer as a teacher at a community school. And this is where I found the donors (HealthEd Connect) who helped me acquire my diploma certificate from Chalimbana University. I really thank you very much for your generosity. Without you I wouldn't have managed to complete my course. You have done wonders because I am one of the recipients of a teacher training scholarship from HealthEd Connect and I can boast by thanking you very much. May God bless you abundantly and wish you could continue with this spirit of helping vulnerables and orphans. We wish you could extend your generosity in pursuing degree programmes especially for the administrators.

What I enjoy most about being a teacher is by helping learners how to read and write so that they can also become meaningful people in the society.

Some learners face challenges like inadequate clothing, books, uniforms, and food. So I help these learners by providing them within my limits. Sometimes I do call the parents have a chat with them at school.

Loveness Mulemba

Head Teacher, Kasompe Community School of Peace